Welcome to Queen Right Colonies (QRC), we here at QRC trust and hope you had a very successful 2020 season, Lord knows it was one crazy year. The beekeeping community has always been optimistic with the mindset that tomorrow will be better and so that is the way we are going to look at 2021.

We are planning to have Albert Robertson as a featured speaker for the Lorain County Beekeepers Association Field Day held here at QRC, Saturday, June 5th. You can find more about this on page 3 in the catalog. As always, we stay very competitive in pricing or do our best to, and as a result prices again this year have pretty much stayed the same with a few exceptions. We also have a few new items for your consideration. And we are doing our best to stay made in good old America, where we can.

We have expanded again, Das Amish Haus is now open to those interested in antiques and gifts, or just wish to look at old things. You can check out Das Amish Haus on Facebook. It is a beautifully refurbished original Amish dwelling.

The livestock at QRC is always changing. We now have Prevost Squirrels and in June of every year babies start appearing everywhere here on the farm. We also do bus tours and family tours of the farm. The only request is that you call ahead and schedule your event. At the end of the tour you can also plan your own picnic on the grounds, a safe and friendly outing for the whole family out in the country. We do make a conscious effort to have something for everyone.

On behalf of our staff: Sheila, Diane, Ella, Lacey, Jill, Jerry, Eliza & Lilly have a great Christmas, New Years, and the rest of the 2021 year.

God Bless, Denzil
Commercial Queen Rearing Family Style
From Then Until Now

Welcome to the greatest Field Day anywhere! An event of this size is always an adventure, to learn all you can and have fun while you're doing it! The LCBA/QRC Field Day is really an event for everyone because it has something for everybody. Held here at Queen Right Colonies, a 17-acre century farm, in conjunction with the Great Lorain County Beekeepers Association. Get ready for more door prizes, more games, more to see and do than any beekeeping event anywhere. In addition, there are non-beekeeping events and things to see and do, such as Alpaca Shearing Demo, Tours of the Farm, meet our menagerie of livestock that include Prevost Squirrels, Mouflon Sheep, Muntjac Deer, Fallow Deer, Zebu Cattle, White Peacocks, Pygmy Goats, Red Fox, Aoudad Sheep, various species of birds, more White Homing Pigeons than you will see anywhere in one place, plus it is all FREE. Tour an authentic Amish starter home, which has been converted into an Antique & Gift Shop. As you can see, this is not just an event for beekeepers, but for friends and family as well. The emphasis will always be on beekeeping and everyone is welcome here.

The art and expertise of starting and successfully running a queen rearing business on a commercial scale is not for the faint of heart or part of a one-hour online course. Boots on the ground to steal a phrase, 8 pair to be exact. What the team of Greg and Tammy Zitlaw have accomplished in the past 20 years is truly remarkable. A labor of love and commitment for sure.

Why queen rearing? How do they do that? Why do I need to know about this? Is it beneficial to what I am doing in Ohio? A story brought to you all the way from sunny Orland, California (Pop.7,622), the Queen rearing capital of the world, Greg Zitlaw of Z's Bees and his righthand man/firstborn Tucker. You want to know how something works ask the experts. How do I succeed you say, start asking questions. This is your opportunity to listen during the morning session and then following lunch in the big tent be a part of a great Q&A session. Z’s Bees come straight to you, it doesn’t get any better than that and all you have to do is show up!

A Free event of this kind doesn’t come along every day so mark your calendar, bring your family and your notebook, your going to need it!

Rain or Shine Event!

Z’s Bees

We are also fortunate to have Peggy Garnes, OSBA president. Peggy is a beekeeper with 20 years experience keeping 140 colonies, queen breeder, nuc producer, and traveling speaker for OSBA and past Western Reserve Representative. Peggy will do a two part open hive class on, “Assessing (Part 1) and Maintaining (Part 2) Colony Health.”

Another highlight to this year’s event will be the addition of Tim Arheit. Tim is a past president of OSBA and a part of the OSBA traveling speaker program as well as the current webmaster of OSBA. Tim will do a one hour, open hive demonstration on the topic of, “How and When to Requeen.”

We always address the current new beekeeper or the beekeeper wishing for a refresher class, which is why we will be offering the topics of My First Year of Beekeeping Part 1 and Part 2. These classes will be taught by John Rose and Phil Bartosh; both of these gentlemen have eight to ten years of experience working with and teaching new beekeepers. Phil is the current Cuyahoga County Bee Inspector.

AGENDA FOR THE DAY

Located on the very edge of Southern Lorain County, Das Amish Haus and Queen Right Colonies are nestled on a scenic 17-acre, 130-year old Dairy Farm, the barn and pastures now occupied by a variety of deer, alpacas, fox and much, much more. The Amish House is a hand built 30-year old structure, referred to as an Amish starter home. Once occupied by Frances and Jacob Hershberger it now proudly serves as a quaint Antique and Gift Shop. Surrounded by the best that agriculture has to offer, thanks to the farming families of Ohio.

Our Amish neighbors are a great asset to the community. There is nothing like the sound of a horse drawn buggy coming down the lane.

Fall is also a beautiful time to explore and shop in the area, as gardens are ripe with produce and there are many vegetable stands to visit.

Queen Right Colonies is a family-owned business with five generations working to help people keep bees healthy and thriving.

We offer bus tours, church groups, educational farm events and beekeeping is always front and center. If you have an idea for a group or event please give us a call, and we will gladly help with the planning.
If you have not had the opportunity to listen to Ray Olivarez of Olivarez Honey Bees you don’t want to miss this event in September. Even though some details are not finalized we wanted to get the word out. We anticipate the turnout to be large that is why we have selected the Lorain County Fairground as our venue. Lots of space, parking, Grandstands, fresh air and a commercial building with all the accessories!

You will get no greater cutting edge information from anyone in the industry better than Ray Olivarez.

It truly is all about the bees at Olivarez Honey Bees, and Ray feels blessed to have created a culture of bee lovers at OHB, and has surrounded his bees with some of the best people you can imagine.

Ray credits his “core” knowledge of bees to the time he spent working bees with his Dad during some very lean years for beekeepers in the 1990s, when he faced the onset of Tracheal and Varroa mites, and a very steep learning curve. Today, he feels that keeping healthy bees and producing a top-notch product go hand in hand with beekeepers working together and sharing as much knowledge with one another as possible.

Ray feels that OHB’s core customers are some of the best “researchers” out there, an incredible source of information, and he relies on their input to bring his thoughts back to center.

OHB breeds 180,000 European, Carniolan, and Saskatraz queens every year, and 100,000 more at their Hawaii operation. These varieties are selected for gentleness, honey production, brood production, overwintering ability, disease tolerance, and overall health. This complex process involves researchers, breeders, microbiologists, and feedback from beekeepers. While there are many factors affecting pollinator health, a lack of diverse, natural forage is the most detrimental. That’s why after queen breeding season, the bees are sent to the pollen and nectar rich prairies and alfalfa fields of Montana. There they produce high quality honey and enjoy a nutrient rich diet to build up the health of the hive for brood season.

OHB ships queen bees all over the US, Canada, and even to Dubai. They also sell packaged bees, produce honey, and contract out their own bees for pollination in the Sacramento Valley. They are currently expanding their business to include a restaurant and meadery in town. They expect their first honey wine to be ready in December.

The Four Seasons of Beekeeping Calendar

It All Begins or Begins Again: March, April, May

MARCH:
1. As always mites, three treatment of OXALIC 7 to 10 days apart and continue this every other month or alternate with Mite Away II if weather is appropriate for such use. You can substitute oxalic vapor with dribble if desired in any of these applications.
2. Depending on your level of beekeeping experience and where you want to be will determine what you do at this point. WE LOSE MORE COLONIES THIS TIME OF YEAR THAN ANY OTHER TIME FRAME THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.
3. Monster colony how to’s - add a pollen substitute and feed a stimulus feeding. A stimulus feeding is a feeding that is not considered a necessary feeding for colony survival, but done so to achieve a desired result, which in this case is to build the colony. Large colonies are desirable for maximum honey production or maximum split potential.
4. Watch the weather and keep an eye on those bees at every opportunity - which means open them up and see what is there.
5. Colonies need a minimum of 3 frames of honey at all times or they go into preservation mode and will not build up adequately for spring - this is where you step in.
6. Honey manipulation or food management is done at this time. Brood fixes the nest and bees cannot randomly wonder about the colony for food at these temperatures, so this time of year on a 60 plus temp day rotate honey from the periphery of colony next to the brood nest.

APRIL:
1. Queen viability and a feeding of Super DFM - a must. Not all races of bee perform the same, know your race of bee and the characteristics of that race and have realistic expectations for spring build-up and brood pattern.
2. Thoroughly inspect colony ASAP and do necessary house cleaning at this time.
3. Do weekly inspections for cups and brood congestion is a must, set up nucs or splits, if desired, or start swarm prevention techniques at this time to maintain large, healthy colonies.
4. Add boxes as needed, where needed, plan for vacations.
5. Expect early swarms and do preventative work; you will hear or see swarms the first week of April in poorly managed colonies in some years. Upper entrances are a must at this time, to reduce congestion at the entrance. Maintain these entrances all summer and even more so as weather starts to heat up. You may want to consider a shim entrance between boxes.
6. You must manage colonies and frames, both up and down, north and south, east and west. Expand the brood nest incrementally. If weather is nice and colony is strong do so more radically to the point of placing honey supers between brood boxes, allow supers to be filled with brood, then place them on top and bring deeps back together as the brood hatches. Do not be afraid to repeat - as needed. Try different things to expand the brood nest areas to control a swarm impulse.
7. Do NOT reverse boxes, this is much too general. Move frames of brood and bees down and empties up, as colony becomes congested giving room above for brood production as queens always like to move up, examining each frame for cups or queen cells. Arrange these frames for maximum brood production throughout the season starting now. This means expand the brood nest by placing empty drawn comb into the middle of the brood nest, followed by eggs and larva lastly capped brood on the outside. As the brood hatches on the outside move empties back to the middle, this is done throughout the brood nest as needed.
8. Set out swarm bait traps for poorly managed honey bees and live traps for yellow jackets.
9. There are several honey flows at this time, but they are weather sensitive. Maples, Buckeye, Apples, Cherry, Willows, and dandelion.
10. Treat for mites every other month, see Varroa Mite Treatment Plan on page 8 of the catalog!

MAY:
1. Colonies that did not overwinter well are now built up and need the same skills as administered to those above.
2. Swarm season will continue at least through June, and may occur anytime during summer.
3. Set up nucs, splits, for next season’s production or to sell, think ahead - always think ahead when working bees, make a junk yard from which the beekeeper may, at any time, retrieve necessary components to repair or build other colonies. Resist the temptation to make a junkyard colony permanent with the exception of trying to overwinter it.
4. Add supers underneath and before they become necessary, watch for queen cups, continue to manage brood nest, expand, expand, and expand again.
5. Spring is here in all its glory, lots in bloom, dandelion, clovers and many minor nectar sources.
6. Treat for mites every other month with Oxalic.
7. Check colonies every 7 to 10 days for cups and brood congestion.
8. Here is a nice trick, try to catch a swarm, and use the swarm’s natural desire to draw foundation for all colonies in your bee yard, nucs, packages, weak colonies, and honey supers. Keep the swarm working on new foundation. As soon as it is started, move it out to where needed, make them work for their keep.

The Buildup Season: June, July, August

JUNE:
1. Use Mite-Away II, before it becomes too hot.
2. Look for queen cups.
3. This is Black Locust season - remember 35 to 50 pounds per colony in the right location and season, know what is in bloom.
5. This is all light honey season, you may want to take it off and keep it separate from fall flow.
6. Super DFM, a must, may be used with supers on.
7. Treat for mites every other month!
8. Check colonies every 7 to 10 days for cups, brood congestion, etc.

JULY:
1. Clovers, alfalfa are major, lavender and other minor blooms.
2. Prepare to enter the fair.
3. Keep expanding the brood nest and always super underneath.
4. Lots still in bloom, soybean, alfalfa, thistle, milkweed and many minor floral sources available at this time.
5. Start to pay attention to heat and provide Styrofoam as an insulation against heat on tops and sun exposed sides of the colony. Bees will be happier, less aggressive and easier to work with in the summer heat.
6. Treat for mites every other month with Oxalic in warm weather.
7. Check colonies every 7 to 10 days for cups, brood congestion, supering.

AUGUST:
1. Late August Goldenrod is a major flow. Take this honey off separately as a premium honey so super accordingly.
2. Possible queen, if you can find her.
3. Bees may turn aggressive with the heat and large colonies, give plenty of room and ventilate, ventilate, ventilate. Use Styrofoam for shade on sunny sides of the hive. If you doubt this works do it on just one colony, the biggest, meanest one you have.
4. Watch for yellow jacket problems, set a bait station. Possible robbing, so prepare weak colonies, nucs with smaller entrances and protection before the condition exists.
5. Winter prep starts, have this mind set.
6. Check colonies every 7 to 10 days for cups, brood congestion, supering.

Varroa Mite Treatment Plan

1. New packages should be treated with vaporized Oxalic while in the package, remove queen first. This is accomplished by placing an 10 inch long 2 x 4 with the 2-inch side down on a bottom board, then place package of bees on its side atop this the 2 x 4 in a standard empty deep box with the top in place, treat. Or Oxalic dribble can be used in the same way, use 30 cc of dribble while the bees are still packaged, queen need not be removed nor does the package need to be enclosed in a box. With either treatment wait until bees have calmed down before instillation.

2. Nucs should be treated in the same manner within the first month of purchase three treatments of vaporized Oxalic, or three treatments of dribble, because brood is present.

3. Then a program of vaporized Oxalic should be used every other month. Three treatments each as long as brood is expected to be present. Time your treatments in spring so that one treatment can be done before honey supers are added and the last after honey supers are off if possible, just for convenience.

4. In December, reduce the number of treatments to one treatment a month, not the three consecutive treatments and only when temps are 50 plus.

5. Make an effort to skip or alter treatments every other month by checking bottom board or tray for mites before and after every treatment. This is accomplished by cleaning the tray one week after each treatment and examining it before each application for any newly fallen Varroa. Skipping treatments should only be done during the winter months.

6. Also time treatment so that it coincides with your weekly inspections, and before colony is put back together. Leaving honey supers off treat only the brood boxes, when using the vapor method, treat the brood nest with the telescoping cover in place and then after treatment put supers back in place. When using the dribble method no honey supers should be exposed to the dribble solution, this can be accomplished by placing a sheet of newspaper between the treated boxes and the honey supers after treatment. Yes this will miss the bees in the supers as well as any bees in the field at that time, but you still have two more applications to go and any missed bees can more than likely be made up in the next application. Also a concerted effort should be made to treat colonies at night when most bees are in the hive or very early morning with the vapor treatment, I would not recommend this with the dribble method.

Doing this will save you money in the long run, and the disappointment of cleaning a dead hive next spring and starting over. This is a prophylactic program, because you have mites so you are better off treating. We do NOT recommend an ether or sugar roll to determine mite counts, because this can and will cause the loss of queens when scooping rolls are inaccurate, when trying to determine mite counts. It is not a science and can accomplish different outcomes with every use and user and resulting in false readings.

Keep Beekeeping Fun by Doing it Right!
Woodenware Available in 8- or 10-Frame

Ohio’s finest milled and cut White Pine and Cypress wood is the beginning of the fine quality of woodenware that we proudly make available to our customers. Adding to this, the special attention to the construction and longevity of our wooden equipment via our exclusive Hot Dipped Paraffin process, makes this a product that gives the beekeeper equipment that will last through many years of beekeeping enjoyment at a very competitive price. It’s easy to find just what you’re looking for as our products are listed according to the choice you are looking for.

Woodenware is available three ways; Knocked Down (KD): construction and painting required.
Assembled (A): wood assembled with ceramic coated screws for durability and rust resistance and requires a coat of paint.
Assembled and Treated (AT): the number one selling product in our woodenware category, this woodenware needs no assembly or wood treatment. Our Hot Dipped Paraffin Process is an exclusive QRC service, the lifetime of wood. For more detailed information on our services see page 16.

We encourage all customers with old or new equipment to have it treated in hot paraffin wax. This applies especially to old equipment where the origin is unknown and disease questions are unresolved. Treating new equipment extends its life and provides the customer with the greatest amount of value for their dollar.

We have personally used this practice in our own bee yard for many years now and find it to be the ultimate plan for all aspects of treating our woodenware. Customer testimonials have always been very positive.

All new equipment at QRC can be ordered treated.

If you would like to have old equipment treated please call for an appointment and specific instructions.

We are not able to treat used equipment during our Package Bee Season; April, May and June.

HOT DIP:
Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery; it’s nice to have a product that others want to duplicate, but do keep in mind we have been doing this for 20 years and have already worked out the bugs, pun intended. There are different melt points of paraffin, which one is right for this application? Some try to put additives into the wax, how does this affect the penetration into the wood and temperature at which the process is accomplished? Some actually attempt to brush paraffin on and that’s just laughable. How hot should the wax be to penetrate the wood? How long should the wood remain in the paraffin in order to achieve the desired result? What is the desired result? Is the temperature hot enough to remove any moisture from the wood? Why is this important? Hot dip done right can be painted over, and what we like to do, is stain over it. It is not necessary to paint or stain but to maintain a desired look over time it is what we recommend.
For the beekeepers who want to spruce up their apiaries, we have just what you are looking for. Simply call in during business hours and we can discuss your plans and create any concept you may have envisioned for your bee yard.

BEE HEALTH

MD1601 Drone Comb Frame an all natural way to combat the Varroa mite, deep or medium.

NU1612 - NU1614 Ultra Bee Patties. Complete amino acid profile. Beneficial vitamins, lipids and minerals, not less than 18% protein.

MD1300 Mite-Away Quick Strips (mAQS®) are formic acid polysaccharide gel strips for the treatment and control of Varroosis caused by the Varroa destructor in Honey Bees.

For more information: www.nodglobal.com

MD1200 HopGuard® II is a highly effective, natural Varroa control system.

Super DFM – HoneyBee Direct Fed Microbial supplement of naturally occurring beneficial and viable bacteria for honeybees. Designed to populate bees’ intestines with beneficial bacteria to restore microbial flora. Better digestion means healthier bees. One package treats 10 hives.

Oxalic Acid Vaporizers

No heavy brood boxes to lift, no frames to pry apart. Just insert the vaporizer and treat. Easy, simple & effective!

Vaporization of oxalic acid in beehives is a proven method of killing both Varroa and Tracheal mites. See page 6 for QRC treatment recommendations.

Oxalic acid vapors only kill the mites that are on the bees (phoretic) not in the brood. With the hive almost broodless in late fall or early winter, that is an excellent time to treat. If the outside temperature is 40°F or above, you can safely vaporize. You want to go into winter with mite-free hives, as the main reasons for winter losses are starvation and mites!

VP1803 Oxalic Acid

also known as

Dicarboxylic Acid

dissolves easily in water.

VP1801 VarroCleaner

comes with a removable entrance sealer that also serves to keep the vaporizer from overturning in the hive.

VP1800 VarroVap

a glow plug powered vaporizer is powered by a 12 Volt battery.

VP1802 Varrox Vaporizer if you have more than 10 hives or just want the very best, this is the one for you.
Queen Right Colonies is now offering beekeepers the opportunity to have one of our staff do an oxalic acid treatment on your package bees at Queen Right Colonies, while you wait.

- Dribble Method ........ $8.00 per Package
- Vaporization Method .... $12.00 per Package

The Sweet Designs Collection

Custom Printed Honey Labels. Choose the style label that’s right for you, and have us custom print your information for you!

Easy to order:...

A. Choose a design from our Sweet Designs Collection.

B. Measure the label area on your bottle.

C. Choose a size & label design:
   - Sweet Designs Standard Collection
     3” x 2” Oval
     2.25” x 1.5” Large Rectangle
     1.75” x 1.25” Small Rectangle
   - Sweet Designs Flower Collection
     3” x 1.75” Oval
     2” x 1.5” Large Rectangle
     1.75” x 1.25” Small Rectangle

D. Depending on the size and style of label, we can fit up to four lines of information. Font size and layout will also be a determining factor in design.

E. Place your order by phone. Call 1-440-647-2602, our label department is ready to help you with any questions you have.

F. Once a proof is approved via email, your specially designed labels will be created right here at QRC. All custom orders must be paid in full at time of order. No returns on Custom Labels.

Your beautiful new labels will arrive within 10 to 12 business days if no delays occur. Or pick-up your customized labels at QRC during business hours.

Customized Sweet Designs Collection

SHOP ONLINE: www.queenrightcolonies.com
Another package bee season is already underway and the job of making available the best quality packages is no less significant; as we write articles and prepare advertising for the upcoming season; teams and research studies are ever ongoing, documentation, research and development; nutritional studies, sustainability, organically safe medications, probiotics - all for the health and wellness of the honey bee.

Now, that is quite a mouthful of important information to digest; however, years of research have been dedicated to the need for a honey bee that can withstand an on slot of environmental calamity - simply said, “this is the reason QRC sells OHB packages from Northern California.” The proof is in the pudding they say and year after year our customers agree!

No matter what end of the honey bee industry you dwell in, whether it is in the field, the lab, mating yards, development and research, packaging, queen marking, statistical documentation, nutrition, or transportation, no one person can accomplish all of this. It is a collaborative effort between you, the beekeeper; us, the supplier; and OHB, the producer.

One might think that a family-owned business such as Olivarez Honey Bees makes splits, grafts queens and put packages on trucks, that’s only part of it. We’ve had the opportunity to talk with Ray on many occasions over the last 20 plus years. The depth of involvement to run such a company takes great intelligence and nerves of steel. He credits his dad with teaching him the industry and the devotion it takes to work in an agriculture environment handed down from generation to generation.

We proudly boast of our committed partnership/friendship with OHB as continually having the best bees in the country with which to distribute to the east coast region of the United States.

Our Package Bees are:
- Certified Hive Beetle Free
- DNA Tested to be Africanized Gene Free
- Trademarked, Patented & Certified Saskatraz
- Breeder stock certified by Albert Robertson and Olivarez Honey Bees

Quality, Reliability, and Commitment to our package bee customers is what we strive for yearly, and continuing to offer these bees is a win-win for all. Please visit www.ohbees.com and watch the videos available. The excitement for several years at QRC is the offering of the Saskatraz packages and queens which have been in developmental stages for the better than a decade, studying ways to circumvent Varroa mites.

Please go to the web site for more information, www.saskatraz.com.

As in previous years we receive a Certificate of Apiary inspection from OHB that is issued by the State of California Department of Food and Agriculture. Certified Hive Beetle Free packages and queens, bred for hygienic tendencies, productivity, honey production and gentleness.

We offer a 3# package that is a full three pounds of bees; Italian, Carniolan, Saskatraz or Cordovan.

Each Saskatraz Package includes a document certifying to the authenticity and breeder of the Saskatraz bees.

Bees are transported in a state-of-the-art semi; temperature sensitive and climate controlled environment, insuring the best of accommodations. A 48-hour straight through ride with two of the greatest chauffeurs on the road today!

Notifications are sent out via email as to pickup schedule upon arrival.

We also place notifications of arrival and/or updates on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and on our website.

All Shipping orders receive top priority, shipping out upon arrival via USPS. Priority mail guarantees a 2-3 day delivery time, and these packages are insured. Any claims must be made through USPS.com by the customer. Packaging, shipping and insurance fees start at $25.00 and up depending on zip code. Packages are paid in full at time of order. There is a cancellation fee of $15.00 per package prior to March 1. NO cancellations will be accepted as of March 1. You may add to your order at any time, as long as packages are still available. A $10.00 service fee will be applied to each change made on existing orders.

The beekeeper is responsible for picking up their package bees within 2 days of arrival. In the event of any unforeseen circumstances QRC reserves the right to change the race of honeybees.
CUSTOM PACKAGE INSTALL SERVICE

If you find that your schedule has changed and you know you won’t be available to pick up and install your bees in your equipment, we have a service for that. Our knowledgeable staff will install your bees in your equipment at QRC and then set up appointment time for pickup. Obviously queen acceptance will be the determining factor. Every year we have a lot of requests for this service, life happens and is not always in line with your package bee plans for the season. Call for more information.

QUALITY, RELIABILITY & COMMITMENT

QRC Diagnosis of Your Honeybee Colonies

Beekeeping today requires time, observation and education. Understanding why bees die helps to prevent the possibility of future lose. Diagnosis of bacterial and brood diseases and proper treatment methods go a long way in the sustainability of the colony or the spread of the disease.
